From Re/Search Publications : George Kuchar: Underground Film Icon before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised George Kuchar: Underground Film Icon:

Underground filmmaker George Kuchar is interviewed by RE/Search founder V. Vale in San Francisco, about the history of his low-budget filmmaking. He generously gives advice, do's and don'ts, recommendations, and sparkling anecdotes which illuminate practically the entire process of making a film with virtually no budget.

"What's DEADENING is: if you go on a tour to too many places, you run out of things completely to say. There you are, stuck with the biggest crowd you ever had . . . And you gotta crack through it, break the icesort of like shock therapy? And you say the most horrible, preposterous thing, and then suddenly it's broken!" George Kuchar, from the book
