A great play...By Rex BittleI haven't heard or read the screenplay/book but I saw the play performed at the Alliance Theater in Atlanta several years ago. Wonderful and captivating play; religious or not you will find this an interesting work about human nature and pride.

A pointed look at organized, merchandised religion; the dangers of pride and ambition; the battles for power between generations; and the redemptive power of faith. A face off for control between a legendary Baptist pastor and an ambitious young preacher. A L.A. Theatre Works full-cast performance featuring: Robert Pescovitz, W. Morgan Sheppard, Andy Taylor

From the Inside FlapCharismatic pastor Jerry Mears auditions for the top job at the biggest Baptist church in the nation. But when the church's aging leader clings to his own dynasty - and his coveted 10 a.m. television broadcast - the stage is set for a powerful clash of wit and wills. A divine study of religion as big business. An L.A. Theatre

Works full-cast performance featuring Robert Pescovitz, W. Morgan Sheppard and Andy Taylor. About the Author David Rambo (born in 1955) is an American playwright, actor, and scriptwriter.
