Beethoven's Grand Sonata in A flat is published as part of ABRSM's 'Signature' Series - a series of authoritative performing editions of standard keyboard works, prepared from original sources by leading scholars. Edited by renowned Beethoven-specialist Professor Barry Cooper, this edition includes informative introductions and performance notes. This piece features on the alternative list pieces in the Grade 8 ABRSM Piano syllabus 2011 2012.

This new edition offers a wealth of fascinating information as well as the musical details and historical data that will interest all types of pianists ... and, as is always the case with ABRSM, these sheet copies offer excellent value for money. * EPTA Piano Journal * It is good to see individual works from the collection appearing on the market. Each comes with background notes ... In all this is an excellent, authoritative and user-friendly edition. * International Piano * Barry Cooper's edition of the complete 35 Beethoven sonatas for ABRSM was a watershed of musicological research. It fused state-of-the-art findings with practical help, and there is currently no other Beethoven edition on the market that is able to provide so much ... his edition of the Grand Sonata in A flat comes with detailed editorial comments, as well as references to advice from Beethoven's celebrated pupil Czerny and much help with interpretation. * MUSO *
